

Edinburgh Fringe 2024: Comedy

Michael Kunze: Infinity Mirror

Award-winning comic performer, writer and director Michael Kunze (member of the Comedy Lab at the prestigious Torino Film Festival), makes his eagerly anticipated Fringe solo debut as Hollywood film superstar Mitch Coony.

Mitch Coony knows what people say about him - that he’s washed up, that he’s bitter and that he’s incredibly handsome and supremely talented - but does anyone know the man behind the myth? No. So, in one-man sketch show Infinity Mirror, (directed by Lee Griffiths), Mitch says it’s time to set the record straight, to shoot from the hip, to get real and tell all. Where? In a no-holds-barred interview, of course!

Join Mitch as he traces the arc of his career from rags to riches and back again, taking in the cowboy spectacular, smash hit, off-Broadway show ‘My Brother the Horse’ and Oscar glory in the gritty reimagining of Snow White – ‘Ah-choo: The Sneezy Story’ – to the low moments like ‘Jeffrey Dahmer the Musical!’ Along the way, with the help of sketches, songs and top-notch nonsense, Mitch drops names, drops his guard, and drops the ball again and again in his quest for fame.

Infinity Mirror is a cautionary tale about celebrity, failure and a man who sold his soul for fame and found it wasn’t worth much to begin with. The upside? “You’re only ever one smash hit away from a Tom Hanks sex party!”

'A masterclass in comedic storytelling.'
